

<https://www.pdcnet.org/ecoethica>

Text about the Journal: Eco-ethica

The Journal of the Tomonobu Imamichi Institute for Eco-ethica

Robert Bernasconi and Jacob Dahl Rendtorff, Co-Editors

Eco-ethica is an annual journal that presents work in several languages from international symposia in the field of eco-ethics. "Eco-ethica" is the Latin name for the ethics of the human world newly enlarged by technology and culture. The term was introduced by the Japanese philosopher Tomonobu Imamichi, who established these symposia to explore issues arising from technology-mediated changes in our human habitat and moral consciousness. This journal is published by the Philosophy Documentation Center.

Contributors include Mireille Delmas-Marty, Richard Kearney, Sang-Hwan Kim, Rebecka Lettevall, Peter McCormick, David Rasmussen, and Bernard Reber.

Picture from the Session of Ecoethica at the French Embassy in Copenhagen in november 2006

<https://dk.ambafrance.org/Foredrag-Eco-ethique-une-pensee>

Professor Peter Kemp (1937-2018), Professor Tomonobu Imamichi (1922-2012) and Professor Peter McCormick